• We ourselves know our quality. We are not boastful here at Wikipedia. If a piece is bad

Continued on page 2
Continued on page 2

The Cebuano Wikipedia Needs Your Help! This is how the dream of Wikipedia is beautiful – to provide the SUM OF ALL HUMAN KNOWLEDGE to everyone. However, since each edition has a different style and speed of writing, we do not achieve it at the same time. For example, the English Wikipedia is closer to achieving that dream when looking at the quantity and quality of its Encyclopedia. But there are many, one of which is the Cebuano Wikipedia, which has not yet reached the expected quality of the Wikimedia Foundation. BUSA, GIKINAHANGLAN NAMO ANG IMONG TABANG. Even your modest contribution would make us happy. You can also share this book with others to spread the good goal and dream of WIKIPEDIA WIKIPEDIA WIKIPEDIA WIKIPEDIA. If you are interested, you can visit the Cebuano Wikipedia at ceb.wikipedia.org.

WIKIPEDYA

ang gawasnong ensayklopedya

ceb.wikipedia.org

We want to give free access to the SUM OF ALL HUMAN KNOWLEDGE to all people.

Continued from source page 1

THE THE THE THE

that 'Bad'. Therefore, there are some articles that, although not vandalism, we remove because they do not meet our required quality. But those that do not meet that standard, but could be expanded, we first list as 'Starter Articles' – articles that need your help to 'grow'. But we do not stop at checking bad ones. Many of our articles have good quality. We list them as 'Good Articles'. And from these good articles, we select 'Featured Articles', the best writings in Wikipedia. In the Cebuano Wikipedia, we publish one Featured Article each month. APAN if the number of articles with such quality increases, we may publish a Featured Article each week, or even daily, like the English Wikipedia.

Article, we really want this to be finished.

OUR DREAM...

WIKIPEDIA

Continued on page 4

Wikipedia is run by volunteer writers. Everything written here is intended to help achieve Wikipedia's good aims. • Prioritizes new and fresh information

Wikipedia is continuously improved and expanded by its writers in the shortest possible time. It differs from others, such as Encarta Encyclopedia, which updates only yearly or monthly, because Wikipedia can be changed whenever you need it. To make this possible, Wikipedia uses Wiki technology, a revolutionary software that allows information on a website to be updated instantly. (This is like Friendster, for example, where you can upload pictures, comment, and message, in the shortest possible time.) This approach makes Wikipedia first to the latest events. For example, Wikipedia writes the latest SONA of President Arroyo faster than other encyclopedias that revise annually.

Continued on page 4

Is Wikipedia reliable? • We have defenses against vandalism.

Wikipedia is not a joke. We hope to provide you with articles of high quality and reliable information. It is inevitable that there will be vandals and bad people who enter Wikipedia. But we are ready for vandalism. Currently, we have the capability to track such vandals by their IP addresses. Therefore, some computers can no longer edit Wikipedia because it was found that they were used by vandals. This is just one of our defenses against that kind of sabotage.

Continued from source page 2

• Community-driven encyclopedia Wikipedia is written by people who volunteer to create it. Wikipedia does not choose who can participate; anyone who can contribute is allowed to contribute. Therefore, you can also help improve Wikipedia. This is what sets Wikipedia apart from other encyclopedias, cooperation and sharing. In Wikipedia, all writers can communicate and help each other. If you have something you don't know, you can ask other Wikipedia writers. Unlike other encyclopedias, you will see that Wikipedia is run by real people. And the best part, you can join.

• Multilingual encyclopedia Wikipedia has many editions in various languages. The largest edition is the English Wikipedia, which now has more than 2,000,000 articles and thousands of writers. It is followed by German (Deutsch), French, Chinese, and others. In the Filipino language, Wikipedia has editions in Tagalog, Waray, Bikol, Chavacano, and others. In total, Wikipedia is available in more than 250 languages worldwide. This includes dead languages such as Latin, and invented languages such as Esperanto.

The goal of Wikipedia is to provide the sum of all human knowledge to everyone, and it is free of charge.

• An encyclopedia Wikipedia is a free and open encyclopedia. It is run and owned by the Wikimedia Foundation, a non-profit organization.