About the Module

This module consists of the following:

Pretest

Lesson 1-Poem," I Am An African Child"

Lesson 2-Imagery in A Poem

Lesson 3-Context Clues and Their Types

Lesson 4- The Use and Importance of Context Clues

Post Test

General Directions: In answering all the activities for this module, use a separate sheet of paper.

What I Need to Know

In this module, you will discover that oral literature and informative texts reflecting the tradition and values of Afro-Asian countries have an influence on your distinctive characteristics and identity as a Filipino and as an Asian. There will be reading texts about Afro-Asian people, culture and traditions.

Reading comprehension is vital in going through your tasks in this module as it's important to all aspects of life as it is today. The good news is that one of the most important reading comprehension skills, understanding vocabulary, can be easily mastered using a tool always available to you: context. You can understand any new vocabulary term using only the context around it. By looking at the elements of a passage, an unknown vocabulary word reveals its meaning. For this reason, you'll never have to memorize every word—you only have to remember how to use context clues.

Understanding how various types of context clues work can help you to understand difficult vocabulary words, even those brand new to you. A text may be chock-full of words you can't completely crack, but you shouldn't let that discourage you. Inside the passage, where all the juicy tidbits of vocabulary clues lie, you can figure challenging words out.

General Objectives:

At the end of the lessons, you shall have:

- identified and defined the different types of context clues which will aid in understanding difficult words;
- explained the importance of context clues in understanding unfamiliar words; and
- written a paragraph about the culture of any Afro-Asian country using the types of context clues.

What is the best definition of the term imagery?

● Imagery is a writing technique meant to engage the reader's senses. The use of imagery in a poem or story may be for the purpose of relaying to the reader a full and thorough description of something.

● Creating sensory images is a strategy readers use to think more deeply about a text. It is when a reader combines their experience and the information in the text to create an image in their mind. This image can represent all of the five senses (sight, smell, taste, hearing, touch or feeling)

Below are examples of imagery and the corresponding senses they connect to:

1. They go up and down steep hills. sight
2. Their legs take cold showers of morning dew on the weeds .feeling
3. They hear the peyee-peeyee of the crickets, and the twee-twee of half-awake lizards . hearing
4. This chicken is finger-licking good. taste
5. People stank of sweat and unwashed clothes. Smell

CONTEXT CLUES AND THEIR TYPES

What's In

Read the following text. As you read, find out what made Peter Tabichi awarded the global Teacher Prize.

Young people have a lot of potential

Media caption Peter Tabichi was named 2019's best teacher in the world.

Held aloft by his cheering pupils, Brother Peter Tabichi got a hero's welcome in Kenya when he returned from Dubai brandishing the golden trophy he won after being named the world's best teacher.

He was awarded the Global Teacher Prize in March by a panel of judges, but the beaming faces of his students was testament to how much he was appreciated at home.

The modest Franciscan monk, who teaches maths and physics, gives away most of his salary to support poorer pupils at the rural secondary school in Nakuru country.

Reflecting on the year, Brother Tabichi told the BBC that the award was "clear evidence that Africa's young people have a lot of potential to positively transform the world".

It has also inspired many people and showed that "teachers play a very important role in bringing the needed change in society through education", he added.

Brother Tabichi is also committed to encouraging his pupils, especially the girls, to get more interested in science.

CONTEXT CLUES

Padayon sa panid 31

Generally, a context clue can be categorized into one of five types:

1. DEFINITION / DESCRIPTION CLUES - The new term may be formally defined, or sufficient explanation may be given within the sentence or in the following sentence. Clues to definition include "that is," commas, dashes, and parentheses. Examples: His emaciation, that is, his skeleton-like appearance, was frightening to see. "Skeleton-like appearance" is the definition of "emaciation."

What Are these?

https://www.netclipart.com/isee/JimiiT_barriers-that-impede-the-learning-of-gifted-gap/

They are hints in the sentence that help good readers figure out the meanings of unfamiliar words. When we look at the “context” of a word, we look at how it is being used. Based on how these words are used, and on our knowledge of the other words in the sentence, we make an educated prediction as to what the challenging vocabulary word may mean. Context clues are hugely important because their comprehension and effective usage leads to academic success.

https://www.proprofs.com/quiz-school/story.php?title=context-clues-quiz_2

2. EXAMPLE CLUES - Sometimes when a reader finds a new word, an example might be found nearby that helps to explain its meaning. Words like including, such as, and for example, point out example clues. Examples: Piscatorial creatures, such as flounder, salmon, and trout, live in the coldest parts of the ocean. “Piscatorial” obviously refers to fish.

3. SYNONYM / RESTATEMENT CLUES - The reader may discover the meaning of an unknown word because it repeats an idea expressed in familiar words nearby. Synonyms are words with the same meaning. Examples: Flooded with spotlights – the focus of all attention – the new Miss America began her year-long reign. She was the cynosure of all eyes for the rest of the evening. “Cynosure” means “the focus of all attention.”

4. CONTRAST / ANTONYM CLUES - Antonyms are words with opposite meanings. An opposite meaning context clue contrasts the meaning of an unfamiliar word with the meaning of a familiar term. Words like “although,” “however,” and “but” may signal contrast clues. Examples: When the light brightens, the pupils of the eyes contract; however, when it grows darker, they dilate. “Dilate” means the opposite of “contract.”

Daily Life and Social Customs

Life in the Philippines generally revolves around the extended family, including parents, grandparents, aunts, uncles, cousins (up to several times removed), and other relatives. For Catholic families, godparents—those to whom care of children is entrusted should the parents die or otherwise be incapacitated—also figure prominently in the kinship network. Members of extended families typically gather for major life events such as baptisms and confirmations (for Catholic Filipinos), circumcisions (for Muslim Filipinos), and marriages, as well as for major religious and other national holidays.

'Asian values'

Philippine Daily Inquirer / 05:26 AM November 09, 2017

When Foreign Secretary Alan Peter Cayetano recently said that "we should have an Asian mindset, Asian way of solving problems," he was tapping into the tradition of various regional leaders invoking the idea of an "Asian way" or "Asian values."

Singapore's Lee Kuan Yew was an early exponent of this ideology, arguing that Western values are not relevant to the region, and citing its different cultural and socioeconomic context. Instead, he emphasized Asian (or what he called "Confucian") values: harmony, stability, discipline, the primacy of family and community over the individual.
